Essential Leadership

Coaching a Team That Wants to Play

What does it take to develop a team from a small state university and into a national powerhouse? Putting the organization first before self and giving it your all. Skill, integrity, responsibility combined with a winning attitude, training, strategic goals, team play, and love of the game characterize Mark Farley's football teams at the University of Northern Iowa located in Cedar Falls, Iowa. Defeating teams and circumstances that defied the odds year after year have become the trademark of this leader coach and his teams. All of these attributes and more are the characteristics of a winning team whether on the Gridiron or in the Construction Business. Learning to compete hard and win is the name of the game and Coach Farley has agreed to share some of his insights and enthusiasm on how to get the job done in good times and bad. This is a presentation that can make your day or help shape your leadership for the future.

UNI head coach Mark Farley has led Panther football to five top-five national finishes in the eight seasons he has been at the helm of the program. Farley has guided the Panthers to 24 wins in the past two seasons – the most of any two-year stretch in the history of UNI football. Through his leadership, the Panthers have won seven straight conference titles and made seven consecutive FCS playoff appearances in the 90s. Since taking over the head coaching duties in 2001, Farley has posted a mark of 25-4 in the month of November. Farley earned Northwest Region Coach of the Year honors from Don Hansen's Football Gazette. Farley is a players' coach, a coach willing to listen to his players, but who also sets high standards for his team.
