MB EYE ON THE FUTURE

Entering its fourteenth year, this course offers attendees a tremendous opportunity to begin a path of success and become more involved in the industry as current and future leaders of construction in Iowa. Participants are nominated by executive management and then careful consideration is made by a selection committee before a new class is selected. Participants will range from any area of construction: executive, marketing, pre-construction, estimating, project management, field production, equipment and fleet management, accounting and finance, human resources and safety.
